SPLENDID PRESENTATION OF OPERETTA BY JUNIOR HIGH

Tuneful Music And Pretty Costumes Make De- [illegible]

PLAY IS HIGHLY ENJOYED.

Pretty, tuneful music, sung by fresh young voices, under capable direction was the attraction which drew a capacity house to the high school auditorium last Friday evening, when the pupils of the Junior High gave a performance of the operetta, "The Crystal Queen." This is the first time, since the establishment of the Junior High, that the pupils of that department have appeared in any public musical function, and all concerned in this initial performance have every reason to feel elated over the success achieved.

Practically every seat in the auditorium was occupied by the parents and friends of the youthful participants, when Prof. I. T. Daniel, under whose direction the operetta was performed, commenced the overture at 8:15 o'clock and it was interesting to note, as number succeeded number the expression of satisfaction which lit up the countenance of many an admiring father or mother, as a son or daughter successfully interpreted the part allotted them. Were nothing more accomplished in undertakings of this kind, than affording pleasure to such a number, the effort would be well worth making; but, young person to whim is assigned a solo part, however prominent or insignificant that particular part may appear is taken into consideration, no person will willingly decry the time and attention given these days to the development of a love for music among the pupils of our schools. The moral effect of such work in the community is well worth the time and money expended, but the chief consideration is that of affording an opportunity for the display and development of individual talent.

"The Crystal Queen" deals with incidents in the daily life of the average school child and really lends itself as vehicle for the introduction of novelties which cannot fail to please. The cast of characters was as follows:

Rosebud ..... Irene Pardiny
Milly the Milkmaid ..... Ena Riva
First Schoolgirl ..... Emily Huckels
Prince of Slumberland ..... Paul High
Johnny Stout ..... Irwin Morgan
Tommy Thin ..... George Wheeler
Policeman X Y Z ..... George Ritzer
Second Schoolgirls .....
Emily Pearson and Lillian Brison
Cheerers—Floyd Bonnell, Harry Allen,
Robert Rylands and Thos. Morgan
Crystal Queen ..... Elizabeth Robertson
First Fairy ..... Helen Palmer
Spirit of Fire ..... Mary Corey
Spirit of Water ..... Mary Yakubec
Spirit of Earth ..... Anna Davis
Spirit of Air ..... Frieda Valenta
Rosebud's Attendants .....
Mary Violet Daly and Lois Jacobs
Crystal Queen's Attendants .....
Alice McKean, Virginia Bateman,
Mary Mogan and Eleanor Pollock

Irene Pardiny sang and acted the part of Rosebud with a confidence of much experience on [illegible] High [illegible]

lacking in power, is especially sweet. The part of the First Schoolgirl was capably handled by Emily Huckels. Johnny Stout and Tommy Thin, the "fighting element," assumed by Irwin Morgan and George Wheeler, were splendid. They, together with George Ritzer, who made quite a hit in the character of Policeman X Y Z, furnished the comedy element. Elizabeth Robertson proved a very satisfactory Crystal Queen. The minor solo parts were well taken care of, each performer contributing in no small measure to the excellent presentation of the operetta in its entirety.

One of the most interesting and effective numbers of the evening was the march of the Woodn Soldiers participated in by William Brady, Edwin McKay, Robert Cole, Floyd Bonnell, Leonard Collins, Chauncey Collins, Leo Calistri, Hardie Albright, Floyd Garson, Thomas Kirby, Archie Kirk, Luther Livingston, Louis Protin, Joseph Companion, Cecil Hough, Charles Lee, Robert Rylands and Burton White, all of whom were dressed in khaki, carrying air rifles. Their evolutions, which were purely mechanical in effect, were carried out with precision, indicating careful preparation.

Another attraction, none the less effective, was that of the Chorus of Fairies, composed of the following young ladies: Emma Kutey, Mayfield Leque, Sue Provins, Alice McFeeley, Gladys Woodward, Corleen Quick, Lillian Brison, Margaret Cook, Dorothy Murphy, Evelyn Wilson, Isabella Murray, Grace McClurg, Margaret Hayes, Ruth Gass, Emily Pearson, Helen Palmer, Dorothy Stroud, Mary Corey, Adalyn Companion, Martha McLuckie, Marie Lancaster, Helen Maund, Dorothy Fellows and Margaret O'Hearn. They were garbed in costumes of tarlatan with fairy wings and were of pink, yellow, orange, nile green, dark green, levender, white, light blue, peacock blue and red colors. The general effect produced by this combination of colors was highly pleasing, while the singing of the young people was one of the distinctive features of the performance.

The first scene showed the children assembling on the village green, where they had gone to celebrate the adjournment for theholdiays. The chorus in this scene consisted of Clare Allison, Harold Armburster, Esla Bennedditi, Joseph Companion, Robert Cole, Bianca Cosner, Samuel Crawford, Mary Violet Daly, Anna Dittman, Robert Gallagher, Ellen Horvath, Zeta Nickeson, Margaret Orange, Mary Pryor, Paul Reardon, Emma Reilly, Francis Riley, Liona Schmeiler, Alice Soupley, Katherine Stopp, Mary Strauser, Cecilia Tomayko, Ida Vonderkall, Ladis Wagner, Mary Yakubec, Bessie Younkins, Robert Rylands, Lois Jacobs, Velma Jones, Mary Koller, Louis Lammay, Dorothy Murphy and

Our Fou[illegible]minute Talk

THE THIRD [illegible]ERTY LOAN

Our American people are [illegible] ginning to realize they [illegible] great war, a war for [illegible]

[illegible]y's are found in the conflict, honor [illegible]ll be safe and liberty defended unto [illegible]ath

With our soldiers in the trenches our [illegible]ties have just begun. They expect more than cheers and good wishes. [illegible] every man, woman and child left [illegible] home they look for help. We must [illegible] falter. We must not only give [illegible]se who are dear to us but we must [illegible] with the pledge of our [illegible]. We must [illegible] that they do [illegible] and our homes, or we may give [illegible] our enemy our homes and our mothers.

In this Third Liberty Loan our government gives us a chance to help [illegible] the war. We are only asked to loan our money to the government. We are asked to risk nothing for if our government could not pay it back to us, what would be the need of money or why or where would we live? We were born freemen, and these dark hours may try our souls, but we know there is a God of justice who rules the destinies of mankind. He will not desert us in this hour of our great need. The Hun has knocked at the gates for more than eighteen hundred years. When he seemed most likely to triumph, when the liberties of mankind seemed in his very grasp, he has always been hurled back in defeat. He is now in a death struggle with Liberty. Will you give your dollars to help our sons to forever smash this enemy of mankind?

VIOLATES LAW; DRAWS HEAVY FINE

Joseph Bryskowski, the baker of 1014 McKean avenue, who was charged by Health Officer Darby with maintaining a stable in an unsanitary condition and with interfering with health officers, was given a hearng before Justice of the Peace Whitehead Friday evening. A number of witnesses were called all of whom testified against the defendant, who finally claimed ignorance of the law. Mike Tysloski appeared as interpreter for Bryskowski and conveyed to him the information at the conclusion of the hearing that the Justice had fined him $10 and costs which were paid.

Bryskiwski, whether ignorant or not of the law, displayed a pugnacious attitude every time Mr. Darby attempted to have an improvement made in the conditions about the stable in dispute, likewise about the manner in which the defendant carried on certain features of his business. After the hearing Bryskowski promised that he would obey the law to the letter in the future.

HOMER WHITEHEAD ENTERS THE SERVICE

Homer Whitehead, son of Justice Whitehead electrical engineer and who was employed at the Westinghouse Electrical plant in East Pittsburg has been accepted in the selective service and on Friday left for Camp Lee to enter training.

FOUR MINUTE MEN SPEAK IN CHURCHES

Fouhr minute men were in service at the various churches in Charleroi at theSunday evening services. J. B. Tussing spoke at the iFrst Presbyterian church, his talk preceding the regular sermon of the evening. His remarks, while brief, were to the point. He was followed by Rev. C. A. Keller who made a masterful address on the topic, "Has Christianity Failed." His argument was, that this was a war for humanity and not for prosperay or territory; that it was a righteous war on the part of the allies and should be supported to the limit by the churches.

WILL MAKE DRIVE FOR THE FIVE MILLION MARK

While the quota of Washington county in the Third Liberty Loan has been fixed at $4,663,450 it will be the aim of thecommittees in charge of the campaign to secure subscriptions to over $5,000,000 in these bonds. The optimism which prevails among the bankers and the people as to the ultimate outcome of the campaign leads to the belief that the county will "go over thetop" with a large oversubscription.

The Knitting Auxiliary of the First Christian church will be entertained at the home of Mrs. S. K. Scott, corner Sixth and Fallowfield Tuesday evening.

KILLED BY TRAIN AT STOCKDALE

Sylvia Sergi, aged 14 years, was struck by the south bound express at Stockdale Saturday afternoon last, and received injuries from which he died as hort time later.

According to the story told by a boy companion, Sergi and his boy friend had boarded the north bound passenger train at Roscoe at 2:45 p. m., Saturday afternoon to ride to Stockdale. As the conductor did not reach theboys to lift their faces before the train reached Stockdale and as they feared they would not be able to reach the front of the car and get off before the train started, they went to the rear. The door on the right side of the coach was locked but the one on the left side being open the boys got off on the side opposite the station. Sergi had crossed the track of the middle siding when the express came by and before the boy could get out of the way he was hit by the pilot of the engine, receiving a fatal blow on the forehead. He was picked up and put on the train from which he had just gotten off, to be brought to the local haspital. However, before Charleroi was reached the boy had died. The body was taken to the morgue of L. B. Frye, where it was prepared for burial. The Coroner was notified of the death and will hold an inquest later. Funeral services were held this afternoon with interment in Belle Vernon cemetery.

NEW K. OF C. COUNCIL ORGANIZING AT DONORA

A new Council of the Knights of Columbus is being organized at Donora, with Dennis Connelly looking after the preliminaries. At present most of the membership f Donora is connected with the Charleroi Council.

John B. Worley.

John W. Worley, husband of Laura B. Worley and abrother -in-law of Mrs. Amanda Price died at his home in Dormont on Saturday, April 6. Mr. Worley was prominent in Masonic circles and his funeral which will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock will be in carge of Allegheny Commandery No. 35 Knights Templar.

Miss Margaret Arnold of Glassport is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Willis McCook of Lockview.

Fifth District Will Likely Be Called on For Greater Number Than Before.

BEGIN TO ENTRAIN ON 26TH.

The government has issued a [illegible] for 150,000 drafted men to [illegible] to entrain for the various [illegible] [illegible] April. [illegible] [illegible] with [illegible] [illegible] to Camp [illegible] This is three times [illegible] originally planned [illegible] nearly twice the monthly [illegible] based on the calling of 800,000 [illegible] over a period of nine months. If the same number are called during the succeeding months of the year it will require a total of 1,850,000 men to make up the quotas.

The state draft authorities at Harrisburg are now busily engaged in working out the quotas for the various districts in the several counties, and it is expected these quotas will be ready to be announced some time today. Just what number Washington county and the fifth district are required to furnish will not be known until state officers have completed their calculations. It is probable of course, that the quota from the local district will be greater than that of last week, when 61 men were required to make up the number and 68 were sent.

The call was issued because President Wilson wished to respond without delay to the need of France and Great Britain for the need of reinforcements in the great battle of Picardy.

HOTEL SELLS BONDS INSTEAD OF BOOZE

There was one hotel keeper in Washington county who put patriotism above profit and sacrificed what money he could have made last Saturday night in an effort to sell Liberty Bonds.

William Coulson proprietor of the Central Hotel at Roscoe, when the Third Liberty Loan drive began on Saturday last, called in his bartenders and told them he didn't care whether they sold any liquors or not during the day and evening but he did want them to sell Liberty Bonds; to solicit every man who entered the bar and make the drive as intense as possible. As a result, when returns were all compiled in the evening after the local campaign had ended it was shown that thirty-three persons had bought bonds in amounts ranging from $50 to $300. Roscoe citizens generally are thoroughly aroused over the bond campaign and will make every endeavor to secure one of the Liberty Loan flags, which have been offered by the United States to those communities that "go over the top."

AMUSING YET SERIOUS

Uncle Sam's need of better proof-readers is not one of the most important and pressing in these critical times, but it is quite serious enough tobe looked after. The complaints of misquotation in theCongressional Record recently filed are both frequent and pointed. Among the examples, Representative J. Hampton Moore of Pennsylvania submits that he was made to say that a certain railroad transaction in one year notes was "no swell matter in the financial world" when he actually said "no small matter." Representative Cooper of Wisconsin complains that he was quoted as saying that the concentration of money and credit was a "measure" although he distinctly aid a "menace."

The most amusing complaint among recent examples, was made by Hon. K. Y. Thomas, Jr. of Kentucky, who pointed out that in his speech against the daylight-saving bill he was made to say that the proponents of the measure confidently claim that "it will add one hour of daylight more every twenty-four hours that the sun revolves on its axis." Mr. Thomas heartidly explained that it is the earth not the sun that revolves on its axis and that he so stated in unmistakable terms. The disgusted Kentuckian also objected that "a plural substantive" had been "tangled up with a singular verb" where the Record makeshim say "my years of experience in Congress leads me to the conclusion." Obviously the "years" of a bachelor of arts would never do anything but "lead." Congress merrily as well as unanimously agreed to order the corrections but the authors of the mutilated remarks quite naturally regard it as no laughing matter.

If the Ukranian and Bolshevik Russian troops acting together have recaptured Odessa, as reported it would appear that, after all, the Germans were not as successful as they thought they were in reducing those two sections of the former Russian empire to the condition of abjectly submissive vassal States. The news of the recovery of the great wheat mart and naval base of the Black Sea is the more welcome because totally unexpected.

Holland knows quite well that the temporary appropriation of her ships was strictly according to international law. Her anger has a pro-German or fear-of-Germany origin and recallsher ready banishment of the prince of Dutch cartoonists at the request of Berlin because of his unsparing pictures of Hun brutality.

You may be able to shoulder a gun or buy Liberty bonds or even invest much in war-saving stamps, but you can fight Germany by observing the restrictions on the use of wheat products provided by the Food Administration.

For the past two thousand years the equivalent for perfidy has been the phrase, punic faith. For the coming two thousand years the equivalent for perfidy will be the phrase,Teutonic faith. They sound alike, too.

The Kaiser is supposed to have lost all his colonies in this war, but he still retains what greatly resembles a German dependency in Wisconsin and at several points in the United States.

Ex-President Taft wants all the spies, incendiaries, bomb-throwers and munition tamperers lined up and shot, but in many cases we don't seem to be able even to get the defiant seditionists locked up.

URGES MORE SNAIL FARMS

Department of Agriculture Points Out Possibilities in Their Cultivation in This Country.

One form of rich food with definite possibilities for development in this country is the snail—the savory escargot of France, long an international joke, like frog legs, but seldom failing to make its way with the epicure when fresh and properly prepared. The department of agriculture considers snails important enough to issue a bulletin on snail farming. There is already a great demand from our foreign-born population, which would undoubtedly be increased if snails were cultivated here. Any back yard is big enough for a snail farm. A plot 25 to 30 feet square will accommodate 10,000 snails, fed on leaves, cabbages, lettuce, endive, chopped kohlrabi, dandelion leaves or potatoes. On larger plots snails will thrive on wild plants. Snails will not leave their farm if they have sufficient food and reasonable range, and do not need to be fenced in. A female will lay from 50 to 60 eggs in June and July, and in 20 days the baby snails will be hatched out and attain marble size by the cold weather. They spend the winter buried in the ground, coming out in the spring and feeding all summer, being ready for market by the following autumn.—Food Administration Bulletin.

DO REPAIRING UNDER GROUND

Not Necessary to Haul to the Surface the Larger Locomotives Used in Mines.

At one of the large mines of the Northwestern Mining and Exchange company, in Clearfield county, Pa., reports a writer in Coal Age, is a rather interesting underground motor room in which all repairs are made to the haulage locomotives. The small gathering locomotives are sent to the surface to undergo repair work, but the large ones, which cannot be run onto the cage and hoisted to the surface, are repaired in the mine when it is possible. The motor room, says the magazine quoted—"is about 15 to 16 feet wide. The walls are of brick and the roof of steel I-beams. A track runs through the room at one side. A large pit permits the mechanics to work under a locomotive. At the left of the room . . . is the workbench, which is equipped with all the various vises and tools needed for repair work. The crane can handle a weight of 15 tons. It is operated by hand and can travel the full length of the room. Electric lights furnish sufficient illumination for the machinist and his helper."

Africa No Longer Isolated.

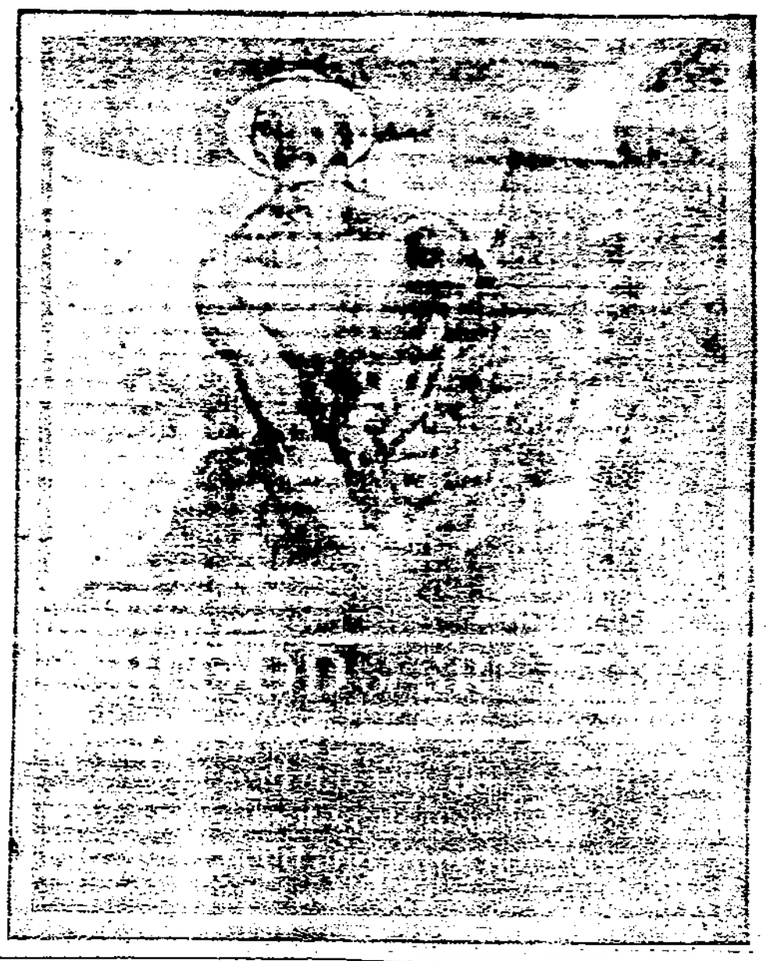
The war has from the first been brought right home to Africa. The four German colonies, over which the war extended, have an area of more than four times as great as Germany; and there has been long and hard fighting in all of them except in Togo. Outside and within these areas of actual warfare live thousands of whites who are intensely interested in the European struggle. Many of these whites, even in the depths of Africa, are receiving the essence of the news every day. Even the Sahara desert is now partly belted by a telegraphic line, a French enterprise, with wireless extension in Timbuctoo. Thus this once mysterious city of the Sudan is now in touch with the great events of the day. The Belgian Congo is efficiently served by the French cable to Libreville and the land line to Stanley Pool, where navigation of the upper Congo begins. The news is then wired up the Congo to the mouth of the Congo, and then by wireless to Stanley Falls, 870 miles above the Kasai.

Two Saved by Heroic Officer.

Hanging by his feet from the edge of the deck and stretching his arms to two struggling men in a terrific sea, an officer of the United States navy made a heroic rescue during the fierce gale which swept coast early in December. In the midst of a northeast gale, which laid the ship almost on her side, a quartermaster was washed overboard while trying to clear the steering gear. The sea was running mad and he soon became exhausted. Tying a line about his waist the ship's cook jumped overboard and succeeded in getting the man to the side off the ship. It was then that Lieut. Richard L. Connolly, U. S. N., swung himself over the rail, and, reaching his feet to the edge, let his head down to the struggling men. One grasped his outstretched hand and he drew them up until they were hauled aboard. Connolly is from Wilmington, Ill.

Humors of War.

The humors of war are the humors of humanity. They have a body and a substance as real as are the fighting men who jest before they die. They bring relief to our spirits, because they savor of nature's indefatigable renewals." The callous levity of the trenches never offends us when we remember that the jokers are pledged to the great sacrifice. The determined and not too easy cheerfulness of the warring nations is a miracle of courage. We shall have plenty of chance to be courageous along these lines. But the mirth of neutrals is apt to be distasteful when it mocks at the things of war. In one of the most charming and intimate of early English essays, Cowley speaks this word of wisdom: "God laughs at a man who says to his soul, 'Take thing ease.'"—Agnes Repplier in the Yale Review.



DEAD SHOTS IN CONGRESS

Two Marksmen Who Would Shine in Any Company Are Natives of Arkansas and Arizona.

If all the members and officers of the house and senate were drafted for service on the firing lines in France, there would be two veterans who would prove themselves to be the equal of most marksmen of France or England or any other country. The Washington Post says there are very few good shots in either house of congress, it is said, and no member of either body can compare with Jerry South of Arkansas, chief clerk of the house of representatives, as a rifle shot. Mr. South was known in Arkansas as the best shot in that part of the country in his younger days, and he is still there with the eye. The other man under the dome is Senator Mark Smith of Arizona.

It is a very difficult thing to put five shots in a silver dollar at a hundred yards, yet Jerry South has done it a dozen times. Senator Smith has tried, he said, five thousand times, perhaps, to do the same thing, but the best he has ever done was to plant four shots. Always one would go outside or cling to the outer edge of the dollar. He attributed his failure to imperfection of powder or shell, or the whim of the wind. The senator said he had even tried placing a rifle in a vise and seeing that nothing moved the gun, but invariably one shot would fail of its mark. The old Mills rifle—a muzzle loader—which was used in the early days of the war and afterward by many hunters, was the best rifle ever invented, according to Senator Smith.

FAIR EXCHANGE IN TRENCHES

Wealthy "Poilu" Handed Out Hundred-Franc Notes and Poorer Comrade Furnished Merriment.

Soldiers of the same age fighting side by side, a Frenchwoman says in her "Notes on the War," may be of very different social classes, but often become the closest friends.

She tells this story in illustration of the fact. A very merry young soldier entertained his companions in the "dugout" most delightfully by his irrepressible joviality. One day his spirits failed. Asked the reason by one of his mates, he said: "In ordinary life I am a clown in a music hall. It's my business to make people laugh. But today I got a letter from my wife telling of the illness of our two children. She can't go out to work, and things look black. That's why I don't joke today."

A few days later the same inquirer said, "Comrade, you're merry again. What's happened?" "Why, a letter from my Louise says a man called and handed her three hundred-franc notes from his client, M. Jean Breton; so things are bright again for us. But who can M. Breton be?" The other man was silent, but finally spoke. "Don't worry, copain. I am Jean Breton. I'm rich enough to afford it. Now sing us one of your comic songs, please!"

A Man of the People.

Representative Scott Ferris of Oklahoma, is a man of the people. A recent experience he had proves it.

Ferris was down in the Osage country looking after some cattle land when night overtook him and he stopped at the home of a renter for shelter and food. When breakfast was served, all of the members of the household poured their coffee into their saucers to let it cool, and Ferris did likewise. A few moments later, according to a friend who accompanied Ferris, two of the women folk were overheard discussing the congressman.

"He seems plain, doesn't he?" one said.

"Yep, he does," the other replied. "He saucers his coffee just like anybody that wasn't stuck up would."—Elisha Hanson in Cartoons Magazine.

DEADLY IN ITS EARNESTNESS

Lincoln Steffens Tells of Experience With Mob at Petrograd Composed of Russian Vigilantes.

At the Chicago City club recently Lincoln Steffens told of his experience with a mob in Petrograd. He said:

"Some of us newspaper men were playing dominoes in our room one night when we heard a sound up the street. We knew the sound. No yells. No crying. Only the low roar of the shuffling of hundreds of roughshod feet on the pavement. And the blend of many voices.

"We went down and opened the door. The mob stopped. And there being no regular mob leader in sight we talked through an interpreter with the nearest people of the mob.

"'Where are you going?' we asked.

"'We don't know,' they answered. Faces solemn. Heads shaking like horses in the rain.

"'What is the matter?' was the second question.

"'We don't know,' was the answer. And still the faces were solemn and the heads shaking.

"'Then why, oh, why, are you going up and down the streets of Petrograd in the nighttime like this?' was the last question.

"'We heard there was something wrong in Petrograd. There was a rumor. It said something was wrong in the city. We are looking for it. We are trying to find it.'"

"SOFT SNAP" FOR PRISONER

Jail Declared Unsanitary, He Will Serve His Sentence in Office of County Commissioners.

Declaring that the county jail was insanitary and unfit for a human being to be confined in, and that the county authorities apparently are diffident about remedying the situation, Presiding Judge Kenneth Mackintosh ordered Joe Ambrose, who pleaded guilty to petty larceny, to be confined in the office of the county commissioners for 30 days.

Judge Mackintosh likewise intimated that more prisoners may be sentenced to the commissioners' office, unless steps are taken soon to provide better quarters for county prisoners than the present jail.

The order of the court was carried out after Ambrose had refused to enlist in the Canadian army in order to gain a suspension of his sentence. He is an Italian subject, and declared he was willing to fight for the United States, but not for Canada.

A cot was provided for Ambrose in the auditorium of the commissioners' office, and three deputy sheriffs, each working eight hours, will stand guard over him until his sentence is completed. Two extra deputies, and perhaps three, will have to be employed to carry out the order of the court. The prisoner will be taken to a restaurant for his meals.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Evergreen Dress for Statuettes.

Chinese gardeners sometimes plant statuettes of tiny men firmly in pots, just like real plants, and then train live evergreens to grow up over these statuettes. The vines thus form a kind of robe for the statuette man, their white flower and heads protruding from the green leaves.

WHEN A MAN'S PERSONAL LIBERTY IS RESTRICTED

"The state entrusts you with liberty to kill, society trusts you with the liberty to steal; the state trusts you with the liberty to murder," recently said Charles A. Windle, the eloquent defender of the saloon.

And this stuff gets across with some audiences!

Now, if Mr. Windle had added: "AND LIQUOR FURNISHES YOU WITH THE INCLINATION," he would at least have put SOME truth into the entire statement.

But lets see—

"The state entrusts you with the liberty to kill? Society trusts you with the liberty to steal?" SINCE WHEN? Doesn't society distinctly PROHIBIT killing and stealing? Doesn't it organize a police force to PREVENT men from killing and stealing?

Let this illustrious preacher of "personal liberty" try to kill or steal in the presence of a big six-foot policeman and he'll find out what becomes of his grandiloquent statement that society trusts him with the LIBERTY to kill and to steal!

He'll have his face punched and his head clubbed and he'll find himself landed in jail,—if he insists upon his "personal liberty"—and he'll remain there because he's proven that he's a dangerous citizen—too dangerous to exercise the "personal liberty" of which he boasts.

No—God and society say very distinctly regarding these and other matters—"THOU SHALT NOT"—and this is plain "PROHIBITION."

As far as possible every reasonable measure is taken to prevent men from committing crime. And when they disobey the very reasonable laws which are framed for the safe-guarding of men as a whole they are punished by both God and society.

When the state—by a vote of the people—declares that the saloon is a bad thing, and the saloon business is abolished, then every good citizen respects this law, even at inconvenience to himself.

SPLENDID PRESENTATION

for singing was very commendable. The second scene was in a fairy glade. The fairies enter, leading Rosebud, who falls asleep while they sing a lullaby. The singing of this number was one of the vocal gems of the performance. Rosebud awakes with a start, surprised at her surroundings. The Crystal Queen reassures her, and the Prince of Slumberland enters, escorted by the regiment of wooden soldiers.

The concluding scene occurred in a market place. There several stalls were displayed, loaded with purchasable goods, such as meats of various kinds, together with an ample supply of vegetables and fruits, and the prices asked were reasonable, notwithstanding these days of the high cost of living. The chorus of marketers was comprised of the following: Hardie Albright, Elizabeth Allen, Elizabeth Barnett, Leo Calistri, Mary Corey, Anna Davis, Donovan Dickinson, Anna Gezzer, Emily Huckels, Thelma Hughes, Ruth Krepps, Fannie Mackey, Helen Maund, Irwin Morgan, Guy Michener, Howard Owens, Margaret Owens, Helen Palmer, Sue Provins, Anna Realti, Edward Rife, Charles Rosenbloom, Sigmund Seller, Lida May Scott, Walter Sphar, Annette Stevenson, Francis Pixter, Mamie Voelker, Rebecca Wein and Evelyn Wilson. One of the most enjoyable numbers of this scene was the "Laughing Song" in which Policeman X Y Z proffers wholesome advice to the "scrappers," Johnny Stout and Tommy Stout and Tommy Thin. This number was especialy well done.

Imemdiately preceding the final number of the operetta, W. R. Gaut made his appearance, escorted by six boys dressed in khaki, each of whom carried a Liberty Loan poster and delivered a stirring four-miute address, which was liberally applauded. He urged his hearers to do their duty and do it to the utmost of their ability, by purchasing freely of Liberty Bonds. The operetta was then concluded by the singing of the "Anvil Chorus," from Verdi's "Il Trovatore," set to patriotic words.

Prof. Daniel conducted the performance in his usual effective manner, everything passing off without the semblance of a hitch of any kind. He received many compliments on the success of the undertaking. In this connection, it is but fair to state that much of the credit for the operetta's successful presentation is due Miss Frances Corter, who, as teacher of physiology and music in the Junior High had in hand the preparation of the work, unil Prof. Daniel assumed charge.

Miss Margaret Gunderman rendered valuable assistance at the piano. This was her first appearance in the capacity of accompanist in so important a work and she acquitted herself admirably. The Misses Edith Jenkins and Audrey Michener and Herbert Lichter, members of the high school orchestra, with their violins, aided very materially in the effectiveness of the presentation.

The preparation of the costumes was under the supervision of Miss Maragret Fallow, who was assisted by Miss Mina Houseman and Miss Ethel Gwynne and their efforts played an important part in the success of the operetta. The stage decorations were looked after by Miss Etta Work principal of the Junior High, assisted by Miss Elma Lutes, both of whom are deserving of credit.

All in all, the initial venture of the Junior High was an unqualified success and all who had a part in the work are correspondingly happy.

DONORA BAKERS VIOLATE LAW

Food Administrator McCune of Donora is having sometrouble with foreign bakers of thattown who refuse to obey the rules and regulations of the federal food administrator with reference to the amount of substitutes to be used in making wheat flour. They have repeatedly failed to observe the regulations and their cases have been reported to Howard Heinz state administrator. Unless they comply with the directions of the officials it islikely they will be arrested and fined and their places of business closed for a period. Administrator McCune is determined to have the food regulations obeyed.

HEADS OF SCHOOLS TO BE ELECTED

Tuesday, April 9, elections will be held in the 67 counties of Pennsylvania at which time superintendents and superintendents for all cities and boroughs having a population which makes them third class, will be chosen. This election is governed by the school code of 1911, which requires all superintendents be elected the second Tuesday of April to serve a term of four years.

In Washington county a superintendent will be elected to have charge of the township schools and of those boroughs which have no superintendents. Also, superintendents will be elected in Charleroi, Donora, Monongahela, Washington and Canonsburg.

DR. SPROWLS WILL BE A CANDIDATE

Dr. J. Add Sprowls of Donora who served as a member of the last General Assembly will be a candidate for re-election. The Doctor had repeatedly refused to become a candidate, but so many of his friends importuned to make the race that it now appears he will yield to their desires and allow his name to be used. Nomination papers b earing his name were circulated in Donora and other parts of the county last week for signatures, and they were largely signed. It is likely that formal announcement will be made some time this week.

IT IS ALMOST GARDEN TIME

A few days ago there was a touch of Spring in the air—how about the garden? This year, more than ever, it must be a war garden. The crops from the big farms must go to feed the boys "over there"—the home garden, must do its bit in a big way. It must be planted efficiently, economically, and expertly. It must be planted with a certainty as to results.

Pakro Seedtape will help you to have a better, a more efficient garden. It is the scientific way of planting. The seeds are evenly and accurately spaced in a thin paper tape. And a whole row is planted at a time, resulting in straight rows of evenly spaced plants. Thinning out is practically eliminated.

Pakro loose seeds are the same Quality Seeds that are in the tape. These seeds are thoroughly tested and selected from the very best stock. A Pakro Garden, either Pakro Seedtape or Pakro Loose Seeds, is a successful garden. Your dealer has over 118 varieties of Pakro Seedtape and Seeds. Order your seeds to-day.

This Home Garden Book is written by Mr. E. L. D. Seymour, associate editor of the "Garden Magazine" and "Country Life in America." It is bound in board, 48 pages, and profusely illustrated in color. It is a text-book of the garden. It tells in simple terms how to plan your garden and how and when to plant. Write to-day to the American Seedtape Company, 365 Ogden Street, Newark, New Jersey for a copy of this book. Price 50 cents stamps or money order.

TO CUT WHEAT USE ONE-HALF

Military Necessity Demands That Each American Eat Only 1½ Pounds Wheat Products Weekly.

CORN AND OATS SUBSTITUTES.

Allies Must Have Wheat Enough to Maintain Their War Bread Till Next Harvest.

If we are to furnish the allies with the necessary proportion of wheat to maintain their war bread from now until the next harvest, and this is a military necessity, we must reduce our monthly consumption to 21,000,000 bushels a month as against our normal consumption of about 42,000,000 bushels, or 50 per cent. of our normal consumption. This is the situation as set forth by the U. S. Food Administration at Washington. Reserving a margin for distribution to the army and for special cases, leaves for general consumption approximately 1½ pounds of wheat products weekly per person, the Food Administration's statement continues: Many of our consumers are dependent upon bakers' bread. Such bread must be durable and therefore requires a larger proportion of wheat products than cereal breads baked in the household. Our army and navy require a full allowance. The well-to-do in our population can make greater sacrifices in the consumption of wheat products than can the poor. In addition, our population in the agricultural districts, where the other cereals are abundant, are more skilled in the preparation of breads from these other cereals than the crowded city and industrial populations.

With improved transportation conditions we now have available a surplus of potatoes. We also have in the spring months a surplus of milk, and we have ample corn and oats for human consumption. The drain on rye and barley as substitutes has already greatly exhausted the supply of these grains.

To effect the needed saving of wheat we are wholly dependent upon the voluntary assistance of the American people and we ask that the following rules shall be observed:

1. Householders to use not to exceed a total of 1½ pounds per week of wheat products per person. This means not more than 1¾ pounds of Victory bread containing the required percentage of substitutes and one-half pound of cooking flour, macaroni, crackers, pastry, pies, cakes, wheat breakfast cereals, all combined.

2. Public eating places and clubs to observe two wheatless days per week, Monday and Wednesday, as at present. In addition thereto, not to serve to any one guest at any one meal an aggregate of breadstuffs, macaroni, crackers, pastry, pies, cakes, wheat breakfast cereals, containing a total of more than two ounces of wheat flour. No wheat products to be served unless specially ordered. Public eating establishments not to buy more than six pounds of wheat products for each ninety meals served, thus conforming with the limitations requested of the householders.

3. Retailers to sell not more than one-eighth of a barrel of flour to any town customer at any one time and not more than one-quarter of a barrel to any country customer at any one time, and in no case to sell wheat products without the sale of an equal weight of other cereals.

4. We ask the bakers and grocers to reduce the volume of Victory bread sold, by delivery of the three-quarter pound loaf where one pound was sold before, and corresponding proportions in other weights. We also ask bakers not to increase the amount of their wheat flour purchases beyond 70 per cent. of the average monthly amount purchased in the four months prior to March 1.

5. Manufacturers using wheat products for non-food purposes should cease such use entirely.

6. There is no limit upon the use of other cereals, flours, and meals, corn, barley, buckwheat, potato flour, et cetera.

Many thousand families throughout the land are now using no wheat products whatever, except a very small amount for cooking purposes, and are doing so in perfect health and satisfaction. There is no reason why all of the American people who are able to cook in their own households cannot subsist perfectly well with the use of less wheat products than one and one-half pounds a week, and we specially ask the well-to-do households in the country to follow this additional programme in order that we may provide the necessary marginal supplies for those parts of the community less able to adapt themselves to so large a proportion of substitutes.

In order that we shall be able to make the wheat exports that are absolutely demanded of us to maintain the civil population and soldiers of the allies and our own army, we propose to supplement the voluntary co-operation of the public by a further limitation of distribution, and we shall place at once restrictions on distribution which will be adjusted from time to time to secure as nearly equitable distribution as possible. With the arrival of harvest we should be able to relax such restrictions. Until then we ask for the necessary patience, sacrifice and co-operation of the distributing trades.

DEATH IS ALWAYS PRESENT

In the Trenches a Point Is Reached Beyond Which Emotion Will Not React.

It is the dinner hour—12 m.—in the trenches. Round a fire bucket sit six men, mess tins in hand, lustily eating a meal. A stranger wanders by from a neighboring traverse, and halts at the sight of the six.

"Cottage pie, 'ave ye? My eye, but some blokes is lucky. Where did ye get the spade?"

"Back in billets, ol' dear. Got 'em out of the ol' madame for 'elping to chop up 'er wood. 'Ave a bite?"

The invitation comes after a pause, reluctantly. Food is very precious on the front.

"Ah don't mind if ah do."

Down he squats with the six other, and the meal proceeds quickly, in silence. Cottage pie is a treat, made by trench artists in cooking.

Not a word is spoken. Then suddenly through the silence, quite close to the ear, come a prolonged hiss, a bang, followed by a cloud of smoke, and up spatters the earth over our seven silent friends, covering them with stray bits of mud. A "pipsqueak" has hit the trench.

In a second it is all over. Recovering, they look around. At the end of the traverse they see the visitor lying sidewise, a mess tin still clutched in his hand.

"Got 'is," comments one man, who has gone to turn him over.

"Why the h—— didn't he stay where he belonged?"

Callous? No doubt. But then, it happens every day. There must be some point beyond which emotion will refuse to react—else these men would long since have died of their own sympathy.—Capt. A. P. Corcoran in Every Week.

SHOULD KNOW BODY'S NEEDS

In These Days of Necessary Conservation of Food the Matter Is of Highest Importance.

Nowadays we must not eat for pleasure, nor must we eat because a mealtime has come round for the sake of eating. We must eat for nourishment alone, and to do that we should study the needs of the body, and choose our food accordingly.

At least a third of the body's food should be fat. A man doing sedentary work requires three ounces of fat daily in some form. Ordinary bread contains from 1½ to 2 per cent of fat; in war bread the percentage is much higher. Butter is practically a pure fat, but potatoes contain none at all. Cocoa is the only popular beverage which contains fat.

We are told that there is a famine in fat in Germany, which, according to experts, is a more terrible thing than a famine in bread. Before the war the Germans consumed more fat per head than any other European nation. Today they recognize its value and housewives are ordered to hand over to the authorities all the fats they may have, derived from cooking.

The Other Extreme.

In a North side family are two small boys, age six and four. One afternoon recently they were snuggled on the couch with their governess, who was reading stories to them to keep them amused. Elbert, the older, had pushed his small brother off the edge of the couch, in his desire to have first place.

In the story the word heaven appeared, and the six-year-old asked, "What does that mean?" The governess explained that heaven was a state of happiness, and to illustrate, she went on: "Now, here are Elbert and I all cozy and warm on the couch and hearing this beautiful story, while outside it is stormy and cold. This is heaven to us."

Just at this point the younger, who had been ejected from the circle and was therefore in a revengeful mood, turned around suddenly and, in his most sarcastic drawl, said: "We—ell, if you and Ebby's in hea—ven, then me's in he—ell."—Indianapolis News.

"Unsinkable" Ships.

"With regard to unsinkable ships," says a writer in a London paper, "Mr. Pitt's plan depended on the use of compressed air and of certain structural modifications of the hull in order to enable it to be used. Incidentally, his designs included a method of incorporating the ship's decks with her sides, for which he claimed that it would add greatly to the strength of the hull for resisting external shocks of all kinds. I did not presume in 1912, and I do not know, to express any confident opinion on a technical matter which only an expert can judge properly; but it certainly seems to me that the problem of keeping a ship afloat after she has been torpedoed ought not to be beyond the power of human ingenuity to solve; and the influences which might lead to the cold-shouldering of plans for this purpose six years ago ought not to be in operation today."

Shakespeare Mentioned Cambrai.

The product to which Cambrai gave its name, for is was first manufactured there, is made in many other places now; but French cambric is always the best and has always been popular. Shakespeare let us know that it was in use in Elizabeth's day, and in George II's it was discovered, to the national horror, that we were sending £200,000 a year to France in payment for it. Wherefore acts of parliament were incontinently passed under which anyone wearing it or selling it except for exportation was liable to a fine of £5.

The Voice of Lincoln

"We accepted this war for a worthy object, and it will end when that object is attained. Under God, I hope it will end until that time."

Fifty-four years ago when many people were asking, as some are asking to-day, what was the use of the war, Abraham Lincoln replied in the above stirring words.

The voice of Lincoln can be heard in America today. His appeal is for us to keep up the struggle until the object of the war is obtained and the world is made safe for democracy.
